Leslie L. Alexander

Owner

Leslie Alexander assumed ownership of the Houston Rockets on July 30, 1993, and – over the last 18 years – has devoted his efforts to making his teams champions both on the basketball court and in the community. Alexander's dedication to winning has resulted in two NBA championships with the Rockets and four WNBA titles during his 10-year (1997-2006) operation of the Houston Comets, giving Houston its first major professional sports championships. Only three other NBA teams have posted more winning seasons than the Rockets (14) during Alexander's tenure as owner. Additionally, Houston's winning percentage (.559, 807-637) is the sixth best in the league over that same 18-season time frame. Off the court, the Rockets franchise has set the standard for community involvement.

"I've always believed that sports teams are in the unique position to make a real difference in their communities," Alexander said. "When I bought the Rockets, that was my dream. I hoped to make a difference for the people of Houston, both emotionally and financially."

In 2008, Forbes recognized the integral role Alexander has played in his team's success by naming him the NBA's best owner. Alexander was also named by SI.com (Sports Illustrated) as one of the five best owners in the league in 2008-09. Alexander, who has held the longest ownership tenure in franchise history, continues to strive for peak success both on and off the court.

Alexander's desire to bring Houston another championship has resulted in recent strategic moves to bolster the Rockets. Since naming Daryl Morey as the successor to Carroll Dawson as general manager of the team, Alexander's Rockets have recorded the second-longest winning streak in NBA history (22 in a row: 1/29/08-3/16/08) and posted 50-plus victories in three consecutive seasons (2006-09) for the first time in club annals. On June 1, 2011, Alexander hired Hall-of-Famer Kevin McHale as just the 12th head coach in team history.

An active participant in all phases of the team's operations, Alexander has continually proven his commitment to success. Since his arrival, he has spared no expense in engineering numerous bold moves designed to make the Rockets a perennial contender:

- In 1995, Alexander orchestrated a deal with Portland to acquire Houston native Clyde Drexler. The trade helped to deliver Houston's second consecutive title just four months later.
- In 1996, Alexander signed Hakeem Olajuwon to a long-term contract extension and obtained NBA All-Star Charles Barkley from Phoenix.
- In 1999, Alexander acquired the draft rights to Steve Francis from Vancouver.
- In 2002, the Rockets made history with the top pick in the 2002 NBA Draft by selecting Yao Ming, making him the first-ever player from an international league to be drafted first overall.
- In 2004, Alexander approved a seven-player trade with Orlando to bring in two-time NBA scoring champion Tracy McGrady.
- In 2005, Alexander signed Yao to a multi-year contract extension.
- In 2006, Alexander endorsed the acquisition of Shane Battier from Memphis.
- In 2007, Alexander authorized the trade for international-star Luis Scola.
- In 2008, Alexander approved the trade for Ron Artest from Sacramento.
- In 2009, Alexander signed free agent Trevor Ariza from the L.A. Lakers.
- In 2010, Alexander authorized a three-team, nine-player trade that netted Kevin Martin from Sacramento and sent McGrady to New York. He then approved the acquisition of Courtney Lee from New Jersey in a four-team, five-player trade that sent Ariza to New Orleans.
- In 2011, Alexander named McHale as head coach.

Since 1993, Alexander has dedicated himself to building the Rockets in every area. His vision to construct a downtown arena took shape in Nov. 2000, as Harris County voters approved a referendum to build a new home for the Rockets. Groundbreaking for the arena took place on July 31, 2001. Alexander's tireless efforts became a reality in Sept. 2003 with the opening of Toyota Center – Houston's state-of-the-art, multi-purpose facility.

In 2010, Alexander and Toyota Center earned LEED Silver Certification for Existing Buildings: Operations & Maintenance from the U.S. Green Building Council (USGBC), making Toyota Center the first professional sports facility in Texas to receive a LEED Certification. Awarded by the USGBC under its Leadership in Energy and Environmental Design program, the certification identifies and rewards best practices by a building in areas that include energy conservation, environmental awareness, water efficiency and natural resource performance.

While Alexander's teams have enjoyed success on the basketball court, unique to the Houston franchise is its off-the-court commitment to the community. Building a better quality of life for Houstonians is a driving force for Alexander and his organization.

In 1995, Alexander established the Clutch City Foundation with the goal of providing help, hope and inspiration to those who might otherwise be forgotten. The Clutch City Foundation funds and operates comprehensive programs benefiting thousands of children each year, as well as serving as the umbrella organization for all Rockets community initiatives. Over 16 years of active community involvement has resulted in over $11 million raised for local charities, allowing the Rockets to impact tens of thousands of Houstonians each year. One of its premier fundraising events is the Clutch City Foundation Tux & Tennies Charity Gala, which has raised over $5 million since 1996. Alexander and the Clutch City Foundation have also aided international efforts spearheaded by Yao Ming and Dikembe Mutombo, committing $850,000 to help those devastated by the earthquake in China on May 12, 2008, and to assist in building the Women & Children's Center within the Biamba Marie Mutombo Hospital and Research Center located in the Democratic Republic of the Congo.

Owner

"It's so important to me that the Rockets find a way to thank the fans for their overwhelming support," Alexander said. "One way we try to do that is by reaching out to young people and those who are under-served in our community through our community programs and fundraising initiatives."

Alexander and the Rockets organization have received numerous community service awards, including the Pro Team Community Award in 1997, given by the World Sports Humanitarian Hall of Fame. The award recognizes one professional team each year that exemplifies community service and acts as a catalyst for community pride and spirit.

In 1998, Alexander's organization was awarded the Leadership Houston "Leadership in Action" Award for outstanding community service to education, one year after winning the same award for outstanding community service to youth.

Alexander and the Rockets were also honored with the 2005 Texas Association of Partners in Education "Outstanding Business Partnership" award in the Houston Independent School District (HISD). The Clutch City Foundation was also inducted into the HISD Partners Hall of Fame for understanding the value of education, as well as an active commitment to enhancing the educational experiences of HISD students.

When flooding from Tropical Storm Allison devastated the Houston area in June 2001, the franchise helped to raise over $230,000 for flood relief by auctioning off hundreds of memorabilia items, including authentic rings from each of the organization's six championships. In addition to donating all of the memorabilia for the auction along with the funds raised, Alexander, the NBA and WNBA contributed $150,000 to the flood relief effort.

Since 2002, Alexander has donated a total of $1 million to the Houston Chronicle project, Goodfellows, which provides holiday gifts to needy children. In addition to several of the largest single contributions in the program's history, Alexander hosts an annual holiday party for the Goodfellows children and their families.

In Sept. 2005, just days after Hurricane Katrina ravaged many parts of Louisiana, Alabama and Mississippi, Alexander immediately stepped in to assist the thousands of displaced residents who took shelter in Houston by organizing Houston HopeFest. The unprecedented three-day relief effort held at Toyota Center consisted of a day-long donation drive, followed by two days of providing basic humanitarian assistance, which included job skills training and placement services, housing assistance, as well as medical and counseling services.

After Hurricane Ike hit the Houston area in Sept. 2008, Alexander quickly responded to help those individuals affected by the storm. In conjunction with Feed the Children, Alexander purchased several semi-truck loads of pre-packaged, non-perishable food and basic essential toiletries. Rockets players and staff then distributed those supplies to area residents on Sept. 18, 2008. Alexander also named the Bush-Clinton Coastal Recovery Fund as a beneficiary of the 2009 Tux & Tennies Charity Gala, raising an additional $100,000 to assist with the rebuilding efforts in Houston and along the Gulf Coast.

In 2009, Alexander's organization teamed with Memorial Hermann and The University of Texas Medical School at Houston to create the Memorial Hermann Foundation – HEARTS program (Houston Early Age Risk Testing and Screening). A first-of-its-kind program in the United States, HEARTS aims to reach out to children who may be, or already are, at-risk for life threatening but correctable heart abnormalities. This integrated youth screening program helps to detect potential heart problems that without the program might go undetected.

In July 2011, Alexander and the team launched the Rockets Give Back community outreach. Rockets Give Back featured the "10,000 Hugs-to-Help" fundraising campaign to assist the three surviving children of Houston residents Joshua and Robin Berry, who were killed in a tragic automobile accident in July 2011, as well as a Charity of the Month program where team members spent time volunteering in the community. The Rockets organization as a whole logged nearly 700 volunteer hours from July-Nov. 2011.

Alexander is Chairman of the Board of the Clutch City Foundation and sits on the Board of Directors of Memorial Hermann Children's Hospital. He was also the recipient of the 2009 American Advertising Federation-Houston Trailblazer Award, which recognizes an influential business leader for enhancing the overall image of Houston through marketing. In addition, Alexander is a staunch animal-rights advocate, and founded the Evelyn Alexander Home for Animals Foundation, which strives to provide a permanent home to abandoned and abused animals. Alexander has also donated $2.5 million to the Humane Society of the United States and millions of dollars to other charitable causes worldwide.

Through the Clutch City Foundation, Alexander and his organization will continue to make a difference in the lives of Houstonians for years to come.

Chief Executive Officer

Thaddeus B. Brown

Thaddeus "Tad" Brown enters his 10th season with the organization, and his sixth as Chief Executive Officer of the Houston Rockets and Clutch City Sports & Entertainment. Brown oversees the planning and execution of all facets of the organization's business operations relating to the Rockets and Toyota Center. He also works with Owner Leslie Alexander to set strategic goals and analyze future growth opportunities for the franchise, and serves as Alexander's representative and Alternate Governor on the NBA Board of Governors.

During his tenure, Brown has been instrumental in forging strong relationships with community leaders, as well as developing and building the organization's strategic business partnerships. The business team has thrived under Brown's guidance, setting Toyota Center records for sellouts, attendance, total events and customer satisfaction. His efforts to make the organization an industry leader in customer service and convenience also led to the introduction of Flash Seats, an innovative paperless ticketing system that allows season ticket holders and concert goers the ability to manage their tickets online.

Toyota Center, which played host to the 2006 NBA All-Star Game, was actually the first professional sports facility in Texas to receive a LEED Certification from the U.S. Green Building Council (USGBC). The Rockets and Toyota Center were one of only 11 local organizations, and the only professional sports team, to be recognized as a Proud Partner by Keep Houston Beautiful on Oct. 31, 2011. Celebrated at the Mayor's Proud Partners Luncheon, individuals and groups are recognized for environmental awareness projects that have been helping make Houston a cleaner, more beautiful place to live.

Brown has also served as the driving force behind the franchise's strong community outreach efforts, which have focused on charitable giving, as well as hundreds of hours of community service. He is an active member of the Houston community, serving on the Board of the Greater Houston Partnership's Opportunity Houston Committee, the Board of Central Houston, the Boys & Girls Clubs of America and the Executive Board of Houston Children's Charities, as well as numerous other business and charitable endeavors for which he represents Mr. Alexander and the organization. Brown was also named the Honorary Chairman of the 2009 World Trade Soirée, a world-class tribute to international business and the world marketplace hosted by the Greater Houston Partnership.

Before moving into his current role on Oct. 30, 2006, Brown served as Senior Vice President of Sales, Marketing & Broadcasting. During that time, he was responsible for the highly successful integration of the team's Corporate Development, Marketing, Ticket Sales, Suite Sales, Media Relations, Broadcasting and Community Relations Departments.

Prior to joining the Rockets, Brown was a Founder, and ultimately, President of Streetball Partners International. He worked closely with NBC Sports and the NBA for over a decade to build Streetball into the largest global grassroots basketball property in the world. Brown managed all sales, marketing, sponsor service, licensing and new business initiatives for Streetball. He oversaw Streetball's growth from a staff of 10 to over 250 employees worldwide during his tenure.

Brown is a graduate of Colgate University, where he was a four-year starter and three-year captain of the varsity basketball team. He and his wife, Janice, have four daughters.

Daryl Morey

Daryl Morey begins his sixth season with the Houston Rockets and his fifth as the team's head of all basketball operations. Morey, who officially assumed his current position on May 10, 2007, previously served as the team's Assistant General Manager after joining the organization on Apr. 3, 2006. He was re-signed as the team's General Manager and Managing Director Basketball Operations on Sept. 25, 2009.

Since moving into the role of General Manager, Morey has built a Rockets team that has gone a combined 193-135 (.588) over the last four seasons and has set a number of team records. Morey, who has spearheaded an innovative integration of statistical analytics into the evaluation of NBA talent, earned selection to the SportsBusiness Journal Forty Under 40 Class of 2010, which honors the most promising young executives in sports business under the age of 40. In 2010, ESPN.com named the Rockets Basketball Operations as one of the two best management teams in all of basketball. Morey's ability to manage and bolster the Rockets roster earned him YAHOO.com Executive of the Year accolades in 2008-09. In addition to earning votes for 2008-09 NBA Executive of the Year, Morey was named "Top 50 Most Influential in Basketball" in 2009 by HOOPSWORLD. Morey was also recognized in 2009 as one of "The 10 Most Creative People in Sports" by Fast Company magazine.

From 2006-07 through 2008-09, the Rockets won more regular season games (160) than in any three-year run in the history of the franchise. Houston registered a 53-29 mark in 2008-09 to give the team a third consecutive 50-win season for the first time in team annals (52-30 in 2006-07 and 55-27 in 2007-08). In the 2009 NBA Playoffs, the Rockets advanced to the Western Conference Semifinals for the first time since 1997, taking the eventual NBA Champion L.A. Lakers to a Game Seven despite playing without Tracy McGrady and losing the services of Yao Ming for the final four contests of that series. In 2007-08, the Rockets won a remarkable 22 straight games, which stands as the third-longest winning streak in professional sports history.

This success has all come while Morey has transformed the Houston roster into one of the most promising young teams in the league. After working with Owner Leslie Alexander to secure Kevin McHale as the 12th head coach in club history, Morey went to work on selecting Kansas standout Marcus Morris with the 14th overall pick in the 2011 NBA Draft. He also acquired guard Jonny Flynn and the draft rights to Lithuanian forward Donatas Motiejunas (20th overall pick) from the Minnesota Timberwolves. Morey later selected Florida forward Chandler Parsons with the 38th overall pick in the 2011 NBA Draft.

In 2010-11, Morey made Kentucky forward Patrick Patterson the 14th overall selection in the 2010 NBA Draft. Then on Aug, 11, 2010, Morey acquired Courtney Lee from the New Jersey Nets in a four-team, five-player trade. During the campaign, Morey's bold moves netted guard Goran Dragic from the Phoenix Suns and a first-round draft pick from the Memphis Grizzlies. Those moves coupled with the play of Kevin Martin, Kyle Lowry and Luis Scola propelled Houston to a 17-8 mark after the All-Star Break en route to a 43-39 campaign in 2010-11.

Despite the loss of Yao for the entire in 2009-10 campaign, the Rockets maintained their winning edge with a 42-40 mark to become the only team in the previous 20 NBA seasons to finish above .500 without an All-Star. In addition, Aaron Brooks was voted the NBA's 2009-10 Most Improved Player. The season also featured the 2010 trade-deadline acquisitions of Martin from the Sacramento Kings, and Jordan Hill and draft considerations from the New York Knicks.

Despite entering the 2009 NBA Draft without a pick, Morey was able to secure the draft rights to Arizona forward Chase Budinger (44th overall). Morey also made a number of transactions during the 2008 NBA Draft that helped bring in Syracuse forward Donté Greene, who became a significant component in Houston's acquisition of Ron Artest from Sacramento. During the 2008-09 season, Morey acquired guard Lowry from Memphis as part of a three-team trade.

In the 2007 NBA Draft, Morey selected Brooks in the first round (26th overall) and traded for the draft rights to Carl Landry (31st overall). Morey then traded Vassilis Spanoulis to acquire Argentine forward Scola from the San Antonio Spurs. Scola (First Team) and Landry (Second Team) each went on to earn T-Mobile NBA All-Rookie Team honors in 2007-08.

Morey came to Houston after serving three years as SVP Operations for the Boston Celtics. With the Celtics, his responsibilities included the development of analytical methods and technology to enhance basketball decisions, such as the draft, trades and free agency.

Prior to his time with the Celtics, Morey worked as a Principal consultant with an emphasis on sports at The Parthenon Group, a leading strategy consulting firm. Morey was also a statistical consultant with STATS, Inc., the industry pioneer in the use of sports statistics highlighted in the Michael Lewis book Moneyball.

Morey holds a bachelor's degree in computer science with an emphasis on statistics from Northwestern University, as well as an MBA from the MIT Sloan School of Management. Morey, who currently serves as an adjunct professor in the Sport Management Program at Rice University, was also the professor for the MIT Sloan class, "Analytical Sports Management." He continues to be a co-chair of the annual MIT Sloan Sports Conference, which is the largest annual sports conference hosted by a business school.

Morey grew up in a small town near Medina, Ohio. He and his wife have two children.

Head Coach

Kevin McHale was named the 12th head coach in Rockets history on June 1, 2011. He joined the Rockets after spending the past two seasons as an analyst for NBA TV and Turner Sports. McHale's time in the NBA spans more than three decades as a player, executive, coach and television commentator.

McHale owns an overall record of 39-55 (.415) in two stints as head coach of the Minnesota Timberwolves. He became the sixth head coach in Timberwolves annals on Feb. 12, 2005, taking over after Flip Saunders was relieved of his coaching duties. He compiled a 19-12 record over the remainder of the 2004-05 season. McHale became one of six members from Boston's 1985-86 championship team to serve as an NBA head coach (Larry Bird, Danny Ainge, Dennis Johnson, Sam Vincent and Rick Carlisle).

On Dec. 8, 2008, McHale stepped down as Vice President of Basketball Operations and transitioned into his second stint as head coach of the Timberwolves by taking over for Randy Wittman. Beginning with a victory at New York (12/26/08), McHale helped the Timberwolves rebound with a 12-4 mark over their next 16 outings, which included a five-game winning streak (1/2/09-1/10/09). McHale was also named Western Conference Coach of the Month for Jan. 2009 after guiding the Timberwolves to a 10-4 mark during that month. Leading scorer Al Jefferson sustained a season-ending knee injury at New Orleans (2/8/09) to derail Minnesota's ascent under McHale.

Upon his retirement as an NBA player, McHale joined the Timberwolves as a television analyst and special assistant. On Aug. 18, 1994, new Timberwolves Owner Glen Taylor promoted him to Assistant General Manager. He continued to broadcast Minnesota games and work as an executive until May 11, 1995, when he succeeded Jack McCloskey as Vice President of Basketball Operations. In this role, McHale was credited for hiring Saunders as head coach and made the decision to draft high school phenom Kevin Garnett with the fifth-overall pick of the 1995 NBA Draft. Overall, all eight playoff appearances by Minnesota and all four 50-win squads in team history came while he was overseeing team personnel.

His biggest transaction came on July 31, 2007, when McHale acquired the up-and-coming Jefferson from Boston in a trade that sent Garnett to the Celtics. McHale and his staff also signed Jefferson to a multi-year deal to remain with Minnesota. The next big splash came on June 26, 2008, when McHale orchestrated a draft-night deal that netted the Timberwolves a talented big man in forward Kevin Love and veteran sharpshooter Mike Miller from the Memphis Grizzlies in exchange for the draft rights to O.J. Mayo. Through deals with Boston, Miami, Philadelphia and Houston, McHale also acquired a number of future draft picks, including three additional first-round selections and another three second-round picks.

Prior to his NBA front office career, McHale displayed a history of success in the game of basketball. On Oct. 1, 1999, McHale was recognized for his achievements on the court with induction into the Naismith Memorial Basketball Hall of Fame. In typical McHale style, he gave credit to his teammates for helping him to get there, but no one goes into the Hall of Fame without a lot of hard work and personal accomplishment. On July 8, 2000, he was inducted into the National High School Sports Hall of Fame. During the 1997 NBA All-Star Game, he was honored as one of the NBA's Top-50 Players for the league's first half-century. To coincide with the University of Minnesota's 100th Anniversary, he was selected as top player in the history of Minnesota men's basketball on Feb. 18, 1995. McHale's #32 jersey was retired by the Boston Celtics on Jan. 30, 1994. In 1992, McHale was elected to the Minnesota State High School League Hall of Fame.

McHale played 13 seasons for Boston before retiring in the spring of 1993. A seven-time NBA All-Star (1984, 1986, 1987, 1988, 1989, 1990 and 1991), McHale helped lead the Celtics to three NBA championships (1981, 1984 and 1986), five Eastern Conference titles and eight Atlantic Division crowns. He was voted the NBA's Sixth Man of the Year twice (1984 and 1985) and was selected to the All-NBA First Team in 1987. He was also named to the NBA All-Defensive First Team three times (1986, 1987 and 1988) and the Second Team on another three occasions (1983, 1989 and 1990). Overall, the 6-10 forward/center averaged 17.9 points and 7.3 rebounds in 971 career regular season games. In 169 playoff contests, McHale increased his averages to 18.8 points and 7.4 rebounds. A first-round selection (third overall) by the Celtics in the 1980 NBA Draft, McHale went on to earn First-Team NBA All-Rookie accolades in 1981.

As a collegian, McHale posted career averages of 15.2 points and 8.5 rebounds per game in four seasons at Minnesota, earning First-Team All-Big Ten honors in 1979 and 1980. In high school, McHale was named Minnesota Mr. Basketball of 1976 and led his squad to a runner-up finish in the Minnesota Class AA State Basketball Championship Game.

Kelvin Sampson

Assistant Coach

Kelvin Sampson enters his first season with the Houston Rockets as an assistant coach on Kevin McHale's staff. A two-time NCAA National Coach of the Year winner, Sampson joins the Rockets after spending three seasons as an assistant coach with the Milwaukee Bucks.

During his time with the Bucks, Sampson was part of a staff that helped Milwaukee's defense improve from 15th in the NBA in points allowed per 100 possessions in 2008-09, to second in 2009-10 and fourth in the league in 2010-11.

Prior to moving into the NBA, Sampson served two seasons as head coach at Indiana University (2006-08) where his teams went 43-15 (.741) and received NCAA Tournament bids in both of his two campaigns. Sampson won at least 20 games in each of his final nine seasons at OU and finished with a 279-109 (.719) record with the Sooners.

Sampson went to Oklahoma from Washington State where he was as an assistant before being named head coach. Overall, he went 103-103 (.500) with the Cougars (1987-94) and was twice named Kodak District 14 Coach of the Year by the NABC (1990-91 and 1991-92), as well as earning Pac-10 Coach of the Year (1991-92). He has served as a head coach and assistant on various Olympic levels in 1993, 1994, 1995, 2002 and 2004.

Raised in Pembroke, North Carolina, Sampson earned his bachelor's degree at Pembroke State University and a master's degree at Michigan State. He also served one season (1979-80) as a graduate assistant under Jud Heathcote with the Spartans. He was inducted into the Montana Tech Hall of Fame in 1996 and into the Pembroke State Athletic Hall of Fame in 1998.

In two seasons at the helm of the Vipers, Finch registered a mark of 67-33 (.670) and guided Rio Grande Valley to back-to-back D-League Finals. In 2009-10, Finch took home the Dennis Johnson Coach of the Year Award en route to capturing the 2009-10 D-League championship. Finch also led the Western Conference All-Stars to a win at the 2009 D-League All-Star Game in Dallas. Gunning began with the Rockets as the team's Director of Player Development, where he was responsible for improving player performance through on-court, one-on-one skill development and the use of video analysis.

Gunning joined the Rockets in 2008 after seven seasons on Jay Wright's staff at Villanova University. Basketball Staff

Sam Hinkie

Executive VP of Basketball Operations

Sam Hinkie enters his seventh full season with the Houston Rockets and serves as Executive Vice President of Basketball Operations. Hinkie, who was named the youngest Vice President in the NBA in 2007, was promoted to Executive Vice President in 2010. Prior to 2007, Hinkie served two seasons as Special Assistant to the General Manager where he worked with former GM Carroll Dawson.

In his current role, Hinkie works closely with General Manager and Managing Director of Basketball Operations Daryl Morey on the draft, free agency, trades and game strategy. He also leads the Rockets considerable analytic efforts, provides day-to-day management of basketball operations and manages the team's salary cap. Hinkie also scouts potential Rockets by evaluating prospects in person across the collegiate and professional ranks, including the NBA, international basketball, and the minor leagues.

The Rockets have continued to experience significant contributions of 18-plus minutes per game from less-heralded late first-round draft picks and second-round draft selections including first-rounder Kyle Lowry (picked 24th – acquired via trade), second-round selections Chase Budinger (picked 44th – rights acquired on draft night via trade), Goran Dragic (picked 45th – acquired via trade) and Luis Scola (picked 56th – rights acquired via trade). From 2006-07 through 2008-09, the Rockets won more regular season games (160) than in any three-year run in the prior 42-year history of the franchise, including a historic 22-game winning streak. The flexibility built into the team's roster management allowed the Rockets to weather consistent injuries to perennial All-Stars Yao Ming and Tracy McGrady in each of those three seasons (140 missed games in all). In 2009-10, although their two All-Stars played only a combined 46 minutes for the season, the Rockets again managed to win more than half of their games.

In addition to his duties with the Rockets, Hinkie and the rest of the Houston front office turned their lens toward minor league basketball with the first relationship of its kind where an NBA front office managed the basketball operations of an NBA D-League team. Under the direction of Rio Grande Valley General Manager Gersson Rosas, the Vipers have gone to two straight D-League Finals and capped off the franchise's first-ever playoff appearance by winning the 2009-10 D-League championship. Rio Grande Valley also finished the 2009-10 season with the D-League MVP (Mike Harris), the D-League Coach of the Year (Chris Finch) and a record number of NBA Call-Ups in a season (10).

Before joining the Rockets, Hinkie advised two NFL teams on draft strategies and ways to use statistical analysis to improve decision making. Hinkie previously worked for Bain & Company, a global strategy consulting firm. In addition, he has experience in private equity and venture capital where he led diligence teams and provided strategic direction for his firm's investment companies.

Hinkie serves on the Advisory Board of KIPP, an innovative charter school focused on disadvantaged children in urban communities. Hinkie, who is married and has two boys, graduated summa cum laude from the University of Oklahoma and was named one of the top-60 undergraduate students in the nation by USA Today. He also holds an MBA from Stanford, graduating with highest honors as an Arjay Miller Scholar.

Gersson Rosas

VP of Player Personnel/GM Rio Grande Valley Vipers

Gersson Rosas enters his eighth season with the Houston Rockets and his third as Vice President of Player Personnel. In 2008-09, Rosas served as Houston's Director of Player Personnel after working a season as the team's Director of Scouting and three seasons as the team's Personnel Scout/Video Coordinator.

In his current position, Rosas assists General Manager and Managing Director of Basketball Operations Daryl Morey in all basketball operations of the franchise and is responsible for the team's player personnel matters, including the evaluation of draft prospects, free agents and potential trade targets. In addition, he oversees the domestic and international scouting departments, while also assisting in the coordination of the team's Player Development program. Rosas holds the distinction of being the League's highest ranked Hispanic front office executive of basketball operations.

In addition to his duties with the Rockets, Rosas serves as the General Manager for the Rio Grande Valley Vipers, which is Houston's single-affiliation NBA Development League partner. In his two seasons as Rio Grande Valley's GM, he directed the Vipers to the 2009-10 D-League championship – which included the second-biggest turnaround in league history, reached back-to-back D-League Finals, compiled a 67-33 (.670) regular season record and have had eight players earn All-NBA D-League honors. In 2010-11, center Jeff Adrien was named the D-League Impact Player of the Year as voted on by the league's head coaches. Vipers forward Mike Harris was named the 2009-10 NBA D-League's Most Valuable Player, while then-Head Coach Chris Finch took home the 2009-10 Dennis Johnson Coach of the Year Award. In addition, Rio Grande Valley broke the NBA D-League single-season record for Call-Ups to the NBA in 2009-10 with 10, including Mike Harris, Garrett Temple and Will Conroy signing with the Rockets.

Prior to his present stint with the Rockets, Rosas was the head coach of the Global Games Prep USA Team during the summer of 2004. Rosas' experience also includes work as a graduate assistant for the men's basketball team at the University of Houston (2003-04), as an assistant coach on Westbury Christian High School's state championship team (2002-03) and as a basketball coordinator for the Venezuelan Basketball Federation during the 2002 World Basketball Championships. Rosas, who previously served as an intern in basketball operations for the Rockets in 2001-02, got his start in professional basketball working with Baseline Sports Agency and McNeil Sports Group, contributing in the areas of scouting and player development for each firm.

Rosas is a member of the Westbury Christian School Advisory Board and a strong supporter of the Charlie Ward Tribute to Excellence Award program, which benefits the WCS Athletic Facilities Campaign. In addition, he has been an active participant in the NBA's Basketball Without Borders program, the NBA's global basketball development and community outreach program (2006-11), which included serving as the Americas Camp Director in Sao Paulo in the summer of 2011 and Mexico City in 2009. Rosas also served as director of college counselors at RBKU All-American Camp (2007, 2008) and as camp coach at the Reebok ABCD Camp (2006, 2007).

A native of Bogotá, Colombia, South America, Rosas graduated cum laude from the University of Houston with a bachelor's degree in marketing. He and his wife, Susana, reside in Houston.

Clutch"The Rockets Bear"

Since bursting onto the scene in 1995, Clutch the Bear has become one of the most celebrated mascots in sports. With his imaginative skits and mischievous antics, Clutch personifies NBA entertainment at its best. Clutch also enjoys inspiring Houston youth to make future-oriented decisions by performing over 100 annual Building A Future Elementary School Shows.

Clutch is the Houston Rockets number one fan and can be seen cheering on his team at all Rockets home games. Whether he is creating impromptu comedy, cheerleading, signing autographs, dancing with the Power Dancers, doling out hugs, or performing on-court skits, Clutch is always a fan favorite. While Clutch loves entertaining fans at Toyota Center, he also makes close to 300 appearances each year, visiting fans in Houston and around the world. In addition to being an accomplished performer, the character has also authored five children's books, which are distributed at school shows and appearances city-wide. Clutch was named the first-ever NBA Mascot of the Year in 2005 and was inducted into the Mascot Hall of Fame in 2006. In Feb. 2009, Clutch had a story published in Chicken Soup for the Soul: Inside Basketball, which is available in bookstores nationwide. This ostentatious Houston icon also brought home back-to-back NBA Mascot Leadership Awards in 2009 and 2010. Beginning in Aug. 2010, Clutch has hosted an annual Mascot Camp at Toyota Center, which is attended by 30-plus mascot performers from the high school, collegiate, minor league, corporate and professional ranks. Among other topics, the performer coaches on character development, improvisational skills, non-verbal storytelling and sketch writing. Clutch is equally entertaining in front of an arena filled with tens of thousands of fans, a school cafeteria filled with hundreds of students, a meeting room filled with a 100 business people, or a living room filled with 10 kids. Perfect for every occasion where fun is the agenda, Clutch is available for your next function. You can schedule Clutch for an appearance by calling (713) 758-7347.

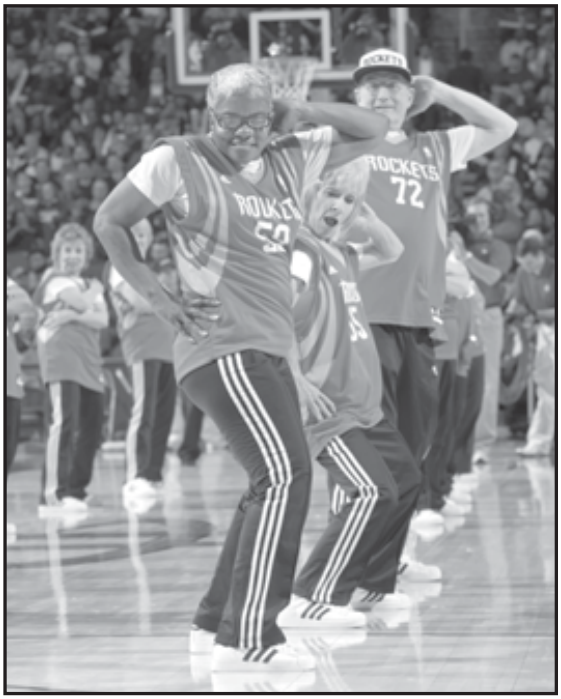
Rockets Power Dancers

The Rockets Power Dancers have long been fan favorites at Rockets games and in the Greater Houston area for their tremendous energy, show-stopping routines and love for the game. This world-class dance team has inspired Rockets fans in cheering for the home team since the 1994-95 season. Led by coach and choreographer, "Sweet Susie" Boudwin, the 22-member squad of business professionals, teachers and students performs at all home games and at numerous community, corporate and private events. The dancers join with the Rockets players, coaches and business team to help make a difference in the lives of children in the local community. In addition to the time they spend with fans at local events, in recent years, the Power Dancers have also been proud to represent the Rockets at the NBA All-Star Game, as well as at international events throughout mainland China, Hong Kong, the Philippines, Taiwan, Bosnia, Kosovo and the United Kingdom. Several of the Power Dancers are also skilled slam dunkers, making up the very popular Dunking Dancer squad. These versatile ladies have been featured on SportsCenter, CNN, Fox and FSN, as well as in Sports Illustrated, Maxim and Complex magazines.

Rockets Entertainers

Rockets Launch Crew

The Rockets Launch Crew took off in 2004-05 and hasn't looked back. This group of talented tumblers, breakers, cheer stunters and jump ropers are the best in the business. You can see them performing explosive routines, running flags across the court, throwing t-shirts to fans, and helping with on-court contests, all while bringing their special brand of spirit. The Launch Crew team members show their skills at all home games, performing during timeouts and energizing the crowd at clutch moments in the game. They also make numerous community and corporate appearances throughout the year.



Rockets Little Dippers Dance Team

The Little Dippers are the cutest addition to Rockets game entertainment. This coed squad of talented kids, ages 6-14, debuted in 2006-07 and was an immediate hit. The group of all-star kids from all over Houston perform hip-hop, jazz and novelty dance routines at weekend and special games throughout the year. Their energetic performances include tumbling, stunting and breaking, as well as dance – always bring the crowd to its feet. The Little Dippers also love to participate in the entire Rockets game experience, whether greeting fans as they enter Toyota Center or helping with contests and giveaways throughout the game.

Rockets Space City Seniors

The Space City Seniors are another performance group for the Rockets. Consisting of several "young at heart" retirees, these seniors wow Toyota Center crowds on a regular basis with their current and old-school hip hop moves. Their high energy and enthusiasm for dance and the Rockets are unmatched in the NBA.

Green Initiatives & NBA Cares

Green Initiatives

The Houston Rockets and Toyota Center are leaders in the Houston community on environmental best practices and aim to drive community activation on environmentally responsible behavior changes. These practices include: Recycling paper, cardboard, plastic and aluminum from employee/office spaces, as well as patrons attending events; toilet paper, soap and hand towels throughout the building are EPA and Green Seal certified; efficient hand towel and soap dispensers to regulate the amount – meaning less in the land fills; motion light sensors in offices make Toyota Center more energy efficient; Controlled Building Automation System; ABC Pest uses Integrated Pest Management with an as needed basis; compact fluorescent lighting throughout the venue; food containers at concession stands are biodegradable; employees use coffee mugs to cut down the use of disposable cups; waste bins were removed from all employees work spaces in order to increase recycling efforts.

Team "green" events have included tree plantings, litter control participation and clean ups in the community. The organization also participates in an annual recycling event for electronics (i.e. televisions, computers and components), as well as hosting an annual "Environmental Awareness" Game in which a "green" item is distributed to patrons and eco-friendly organizations educate patrons on "going green."

Green programs include PSAs at each home game promoting environmental best practice factoids, working with an energy provider to increase renewable credits of energy procurement, paperless ticketing via Flash Seats at all events at Toyota Center, and the "Green Team of the Game," where local youth groups help collect recyclable items during a home game and are recognized as the "Green Team of the Game" presented by Republic Services.

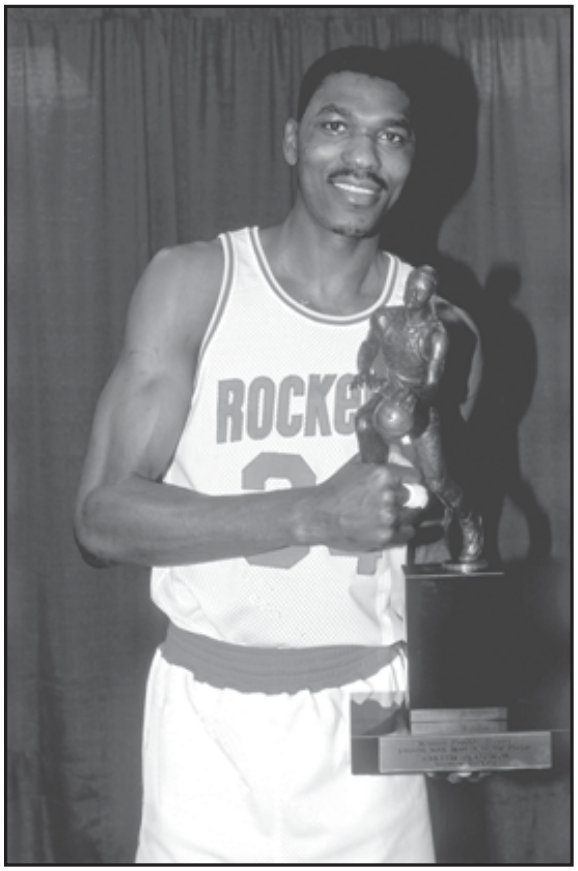
The History

History of the Rockets

The Rockets franchise entered the NBA as the San Diego Rockets prior to the 1967-68 season, along with the Seattle SuperSonics, as the league expanded to 12 teams. The Rockets received their team name because it kept with San Diego's then-theme of a "city in motion," while reflecting the growth of space-age industries in San Diego. The 1967-68 Rockets compiled a league-worst 15-67 record, but were able to select University of Houston's Elvin Hayes with the first overall pick in the 1968 NBA Draft. As a rookie, Hayes scored an NBA-leading 28.4 points per game, helping the team to a 37-45 record and a playoff berth. The Rockets drafted Rudy Tomjanovich and Calvin Murphy in the 1970 NBA Draft, but were unable to produce a winning record in any of their four seasons in San Diego.



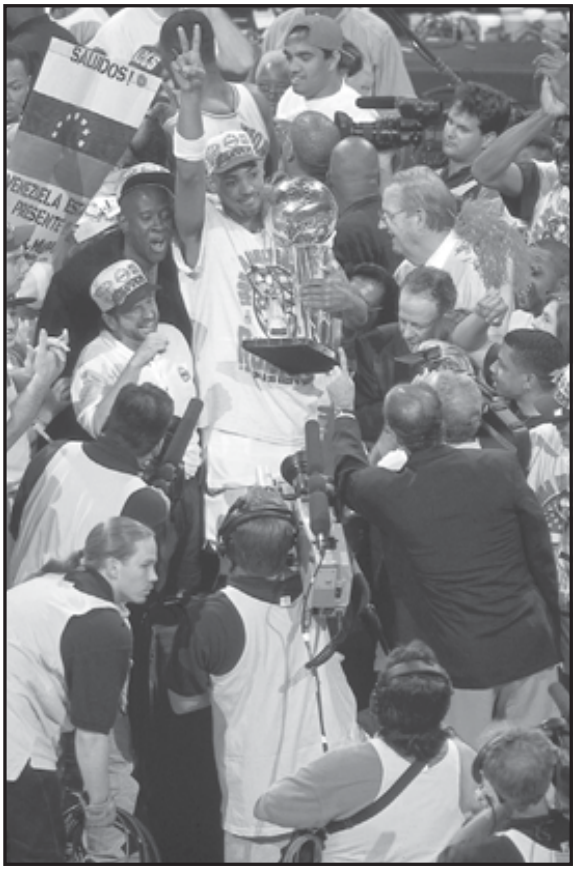
In June 1971, a group named Texas Sports Investments bought the Rockets franchise for $5.6 million and moved the team to Houston. During their first year in Texas, the Rockets played home games in Houston, San Antonio and Waco. In 1972, Hayes was traded to Baltimore. The 1974-75 Rockets produced the franchise's first season at .500 or better and first playoff series win. The franchise further improved two seasons later with the additions of John Lucas, the top pick in the 1976 NBA Draft, and Moses Malone, who had starred in the ABA the previous two years. The 1976-77 Rockets registered a 49-33 record and won their first division title, as 1977 NBA Coach of the Year Tom Nissalke guided them to the Conference Finals. Houston's record slipped the following season, as the team played most of the year without an injured Tomjanovich. He returned the following season to join Malone and Murphy in the 1979 NBA All-Star Game. That season, Malone averaged 24.8 points and an NBA-leading 17.6 rebounds to give the Rockets their first-ever NBA MVP. After the 1978-79 Rockets were eliminated in the first round of the playoffs, Del Harris was hired as head coach. In Harris' first season, the Rockets advanced to the Conference Semifinals.

The 1980-81 Rockets qualified for the playoffs in the season's final weekend with a 40-42 record. Malone averaged 27.8 points and an NBA-best 14.8 rebounds, while Murphy set NBA records with 78 consecutive free throws made and a single-season free-throw percentage of .958. Despite their sub-.500 record, the Rockets advanced to their first-ever NBA Finals, losing to Boston but becoming the first team from Houston to play for a championship in basketball, football or baseball. The following season, Hayes returned to replace a retired Tomjanovich, but the Rockets were unable to recapture the postseason magic. Despite Malone winning his second NBA MVP award with averages of 31.1 points and 14.7 rebounds, the 1981-82 Rockets lost in the first round of the playoffs. Malone was then traded to Philadelphia and the 1982-83 Rockets logged a franchise-worst 14-68 record. The Rockets replaced Del Harris with Bill Fitch as head coach at the season's end.

Houston used back-to-back poor seasons to obtain the first overall selection in both the 1983 and 1984 NBA Drafts. The Rockets picked 7-foot-4 Ralph Sampson in 1983 and 7-foot Hakeem Olajuwon from the University of Houston the following year to assemble the tallest frontcourt the league had ever known. Sampson won the NBA Rookie of the Year award in his first season, while Olajuwon finished second in balloting to Michael Jordan a year later. The 1984-85 Rockets compiled a 48-34 record during Sampson's and Olajuwon's first season together, but were eliminated in the first round of the playoffs. The following year, the Rockets rolled to a 51-31 record, won the Midwest Division, and upset the defending NBA Champion L.A. Lakers to advance to the NBA Finals, where the team fell to Boston for the second time in six years.

The 1986-87 Rockets advanced to the Conference Semifinals, as Olajuwon earned his first of three straight All-NBA First-Team selections and Sampson struggled with injuries. The next year Houston traded Sampson and Steve Harris to Golden State for Joe Barry Carroll and Eric "Sleepy" Floyd, marking the first time that two first overall selections had been traded for one another. After the 1987-88 Rockets lost in the first round of the playoffs, Don Chaney replaced Fitch as head coach. During the 1988-89 season, Olajuwon became the first player to collect 200 steals and 200 blocks in the same season. Despite the addition of Otis Thorpe, the 1988-89 Rockets lost in the first round of the playoffs. The following season, a trade for Vernon Maxwell could not prevent another first-round exit. With the addition of Kenny Smith, the 1990-91 Rockets overcame losing Olajuwon to injury for 26 games to finish with a 52-30 record and earn Don Chaney NBA Coach of the Year honors. A first-round exit followed by a 26-26 start to the 1991-92 season cost Chaney his job. Tomjanovich was promoted from assistant coach to interim head coach during the season before being named permanent head coach at the season's end. That offseason, the Rockets added Robert Horry via the 1992 NBA Draft.

Beginning with the 1992-93 season, Olajuwon's All-Star play elevated to an even higher level for a four-year stretch. In 1993, he won the first of consecutive Defensive Player of the Year awards, finished second in MVP voting, and earned the first of consecutive selections to the All-NBA First Team. The 1992-93 Rockets set a franchise record with an NBA season-best 15 consecutive wins and won the Midwest Division with a 55-27 record before losing in the Conference Semifinals.



On July 30, 1993, Leslie Alexander purchased the Rockets. The 1993-94 Rockets opened the year by tying an NBA record with a perfect 15-0 start. Houston went on to set the franchise record for wins with a 58-24 record, claiming the Midwest Division title. Olajuwon averaged 27.3 points, 11.9 rebounds and 3.71 blocked shots to win both the NBA MVP award and the NBA Defensive Player of the Year award. In the Conference Semifinals, two home losses to Phoenix prompted a Houston newspaper to post the headline "Choke City," but the Rockets responded to win the seven-game series and earn the moniker "Clutch City." Houston then defeated Utah in the Conference Finals to advance to the 1994 NBA Finals against the New York Knicks. No team reached 100 points in any game in the Finals and every contest was decided by less than 10 points. The Rockets won the seven-game series to secure the first-ever professional championship for a sports team from Houston. Olajuwon earned the Finals MVP award, becoming the first player to ever win this honor along with both the regular season MVP award and the Defensive Player of the Year award in the same season.

With another NBA Championship in 1995, the Rockets became the fifth franchise in league history to boast back-to-back titles. The Rockets played the role of underdog in their bid to repeat as champions, entering the postseason as the sixth seed in the conference with a 47-35 record. The Rockets midseason trade of Thorpe reunited Houston native Clyde Drexler with Olajuwon, his former teammate at the University of Houston. The Rockets became the lowest seed ever to win a title and the first team to ever eliminate four teams that had each won 50 or more regular-season games, knocking off Utah, Phoenix, San Antonio and Orlando. The Rockets swept Orlando in the 1995 NBA Finals, as Olajuwon repeated as the NBA Finals MVP.

During the 1995-96 season, Olajuwon became the NBA's all-time blocked shots leader and Tomjanovich became the franchise's all-time winningest coach. In the playoffs, the Rockets were unable to repeat as champions, falling in the Conference Semifinals. Prior to the 1996-97 season, the Rockets acquired Charles Barkley, whose addition propelled Houston to a 57-25 record and the Conference Finals. The 1997-98 Rockets hoped to make one last championship run in Drexler's final season, but Barkley tore a tricep muscle and Houston bowed out in the first round. The next year, the Rockets added Scottie Pippen to fill out the frontcourt of Olajuwon and Barkley. The Rockets notched their 15th consecutive winning season, but lost in the first round of the playoffs. Pippen was then traded to Portland in the offseason.

In the 1999-2000 season, Barkley played his final season and Steve Francis earned NBA Co-Rookie of the Year honors. The following season marked Houston's last year with Olajuwon, who requested a trade at the season's end. One year later, the Rockets found a new center with the first overall pick in the 2002 NBA Draft. Houston selected China's Yao Ming, who became the first-ever No. 1 pick to come from an international basketball league. Following the 2002-2003 season, Tomjanovich stepped down as head coach of the Rockets with a franchise-record 503 victories in 900 games.

On June 11, 2003, Jeff Van Gundy became the 10th head coach in Rockets history. In Van Gundy's first season, the Rockets moved into their new home Toyota Center, set several defensive records and returned to the playoffs for the first time in five years. On June 29, 2004, Houston acquired Tracy McGrady, trading its backcourt of Francis and Cuttino Mobley in a seven-player deal for the 25-year-old two-time NBA scoring champion. In his inaugural season in Houston, McGrady became the first player in Rockets history to reach 2,000 points, 400 rebounds and 400 assists in a single season. McGrady also became the first-ever Houston player to earn Player-of-the-Week recognition four times in the same campaign. Overall in 2004-2005, the tandem of McGrady and Yao helped lead the Rockets to a 51-31 mark and a first-round playoff series with Dallas, where the Mavericks prevailed in a decisive Game Seven at AmericanAirlines Center.

The 2005-2006 campaign was highlighted with Houston hosting the 2006 NBA All-Star Game, which marked the second time the contest has been played in the "Space City." Houston first held the midseason classic in 1989 before a then-record crowd of 44,735 at the Astrodome. McGrady scored a game-high 36 points for the West, while Yao led all players in votes received for a second straight season. The Rockets finished 2005-2006 with a 34-48 record, as McGrady and Yao played in just 31 games together due to injuries suffered by both players.

On April 3, 2006, Alexander named Daryl Morey as the team's Assistant General Manager. The Rockets also acquired Shane Battier from the Memphis Grizzlies in exchange for Stromile Swift and the draft rights to Connecticut forward Rudy Gay on July 12, 2006. With the addition of Battier along with strong play from Yao and McGrady, the 2006-07 Rockets blasted off to one of their best starts in recent years. Yao was named Western Conference Player of the Month for games played through Nov., becoming the first Rockets player to receive this recognition since Olajuwon. When Yao suffered a small fracture on his right anterior medial tibial plateau vs. the L.A. Clippers on Dec. 23, McGrady put the team on his back and helped lead the Rockets to a 20-12 record over the 32 games Yao was out with the injury. Also playing a huge role was reserve center Dikembe Mutombo, who moved past Kareem Abdul-Jabbar into second on the NBA's all-time blocked shots list. Houston finished the season with a 52-30 mark, but lost a heartbreaking Game Seven to the Utah Jazz in the opening round of the 2007 NBA Playoffs.

On May 10, 2007, Alexander announced that Morey officially assumed his role as General Manager of the franchise. Morey took over the position from retiring Carroll Dawson, who was honored by Alexander with "Carroll Dawson Tribute Night" on April 16, 2007, where a banner bearing his name was hung from the rafters of Toyota Center in tribute to Dawson's 27 seasons with the Rockets organization. The offseason changes did not stop there, as the team and Van Gundy decided to part ways. Alexander then hired Rick Adelman as head coach and commissioned Morey to build a roster to fit his system. In the 2007 NBA Draft, Morey selected Aaron Brooks in the first round and traded for the draft rights to Carl Landry. The team also acquired from San Antonio the draft rights to Argentine forward Luis Scola on July 12, 2007.

In his first season, Adelman guided the 2007-08 Rockets to a 55-27 record. Houston actually captured 22 victories in a row (1/29/08-3/16/08), which stands as the second-longest winning streak in NBA history. The team went 13-0 in Feb. 2008, while recording 12 consecutive wins away from Toyota Center (1/4/08-3/12/08) to mark the longest road winning streak in club annals. The accomplishments were even more noteworthy since Yao was lost for the remainder of the season after undergoing surgery to repair a stress fracture in his left foot on March 3, 2008. Another highlight during this record-setting season was Alexander honoring Olajuwon for his many contributions to the Rockets organization with the unveiling of a commissioned bronze sculpture in front of Toyota Center during a special ceremony on April 11, 2008. Despite a growing number of injuries, Houston battled to the end, but dropped their opening-round series with Utah in the 2008 NBA Playoffs.

The Rockets began the 2008-09 campaign by trading for Ron Artest and completed their run by taking the eventual NBA Champion L.A. Lakers to a Game Seven of the 2009 Western Conference Semifinals. Led by the scoring of Brooks, Houston went the full seven games with the Lakers despite playing without McGrady (microfracture surgery on left knee) and losing the services of Yao (broken bone in left foot) for the final four contests of the series. The Rockets advanced to face the Lakers by defeating Portland in the opening round, which marked the club's first series win in the playoffs since 1997. The memorable postseason came after a 53-29 regular season, which gave Houston its third consecutive 50-win campaign for the first time in franchise history.

Despite playing the entire 2009-10 campaign without Yao (foot surgery), Houston registered a 42-40 mark to become the only team in the past 20 NBA seasons to finish above .500 without an All-Star. It marked just the 26th time in NBA history for a team to finish a season with a winning record and not make the playoffs. Brooks became the sixth player in league annals to make at least 200 3-pointers (209) and dish out 400 or more assists (434) in the same season en route to capturing the NBA's 2009-10 Most Improved Player award. In addition to the inspired play of Scola, the Rockets were involved in a three-team, nine-player trade that brought Kevin Martin to Houston from Sacramento on Feb. 18, 2010, while sending McGrady to the New York Knicks and Landry to the Kings.

In the offseason leading into 2010-11, Houston made Kentucky forward Patrick Patterson the 14th overall selection in the 2010 NBA Draft. After signing free agent Brad Miller from the Chicago Bulls, the Rockets acquired Courtney Lee from the New Jersey Nets in a four-team, five-player trade that sent Trevor Ariza to the New Orleans Hornets. The Rockets went on to secure a 43-39 mark in 2010-11, joining the 1970-71 and 1971-72 Phoenix Suns as the only two teams to miss the playoffs in two straight seasons despite finishing with a winning record in both campaigns. Houston's 2010-11 season also marked one of change, which began with Yao enduring yet another season-ending surgery. The Rockets transition continued at the trade deadline with Battier rejoining the Grizzlies and the acquisition of Goran Dragic from the Suns in exchange for Brooks. Following the season, the Rockets and Adelman mutually agreed to part ways.

Houston would name Hall-of-Famer Kevin McHale as the 12th head coach in team history on June 1, 2011. The Rockets then selected Kansas forward Marcus Morris with the 14th overall pick in the 2011 NBA Draft. Yao, who established himself as one of the top centers in the NBA and a global phenomenon, announced from his hometown of Shanghai, China that he has retired from the NBA on July 20, 2011.

Houston's native son, Clyde Drexler, originally gained fame with Hakeem Olajuwon on "Phi Slama Jama" at the University of Houston. Over a decade later, "The Glide" returned to his hometown to team up with "The Dream" to deliver the Rockets second consecutive NBA Championship.

On Feb. 14, 1995, Drexler was traded to Houston with Tracy Murray for Otis Thorpe and the rights to Marcelo Nicola on Feb. 14, 1995. In 35 regular season games with Houston during the 1994-95 season, Drexler averaged 21.4 points on .506 shooting with 7.0 rebounds. Drexler's value soared higher for the Rockets in the 1995 NBA Playoffs, when he served as the Rockets second-leading scorer during their second consecutive championship run. Drexler averaged 20.5 points, 7.0 rebounds and 5.0 assists in 22 playoff games for Houston, as the Rockets became the first-ever sixth seed to win an NBA title. In Houston's 1995 NBA Finals sweep of Shaquille O'Neal and the Orlando Magic, Drexler posted averages of 21.5 points, 9.5 rebounds and 6.8 assists.

Following the Rockets championship run of 1995, Drexler signed a contract extension to play with Houston for three more seasons. He became the 24th player in NBA history to register 20,000 career points on Nov. 24, 1996, at the L.A. Lakers. That same season he earned selection to the NBA's 50th Anniversary All-Time Team during the 1997 NBA All-Star Weekend. On Feb. 16, 1998, Drexler joined John Havlicek and Oscar Robertson as the only players in NBA history to collect 20,000 points, 6,000 rebounds and 6,000 assists in a career. In his final season with the Rockets, Drexler teamed with Houston Comets guard Cynthia Cooper to win the first-ever All-Star 2ball competition during the 1998 All-Star Weekend.

In 219 games with the Rockets, Drexler averaged 19.0 points, 6.1 rebounds, 5.4 assists and 1.88 steals. In Rockets history, his scoring average ranks tied for eighth all-time, his 363 3-pointers rank 11th and his 1,072 3-pointers attempted rank 10th. Drexler will best be remembered for his playoff performances with the Rockets, as he averaged 18.6 points, 6.5 rebounds and 4.9 assists in 51 playoff games with Houston. In Rockets playoff history, he stands tied for second in 3-pointers attempted, third in 3-pointers made, third in free throws made and attempted, sixth in scoring average, fourth in steals, fourth in assists, fourth in points, fifth in field goals made and attempted, seventh in rebounds, and ninth in blocks. Drexler teamed with Olajuwon to become the third teammate duo in NBA playoff history to each reach 40 points in the same game when he scored 41 points in Game Four of the 1995 Western Conference First Round vs. Utah.

After leading the Rockets in scoring during the 1997-98 season, Drexler retired from the NBA with career averages of 20.4 points, 6.1 rebounds, 5.6 assists and 2.03 steals in 15 seasons with Portland and Houston. He ranks 25th in NBA history with 22,195 career points and seventh with 2,207 career steals. Before being traded to Houston, Drexler played for 11-and-a-half seasons in Portland, leaving as the Blazers all-time leader in games played, minutes played, scoring, field goals made and attempted, free throws made and attempted, total rebounds, offensive rebounds and steals. He was named to the All-NBA First Team in 1992 and played on the gold-medal-winning "Dream Team" in the Olympics following that season. He received both All-NBA Second-Team (1988, 1991) and Third-Team (1990, 1995) honors twice. The 10-time NBA All-Star collected 25 career triple-doubles, with his last seven coming with the Rockets. Drexler participated in the playoffs in every year he played, placing him among the all-time NBA leaders in postseasons played. He reached the NBA Finals three times, as his Blazers lost to Detroit in 1990 and Chicago in 1992 before he won with the Rockets. His NBA Finals scoring average of 24.5 points per game ranks 11th in NBA history. He ranks 21st among all-time NBA career playoff scorers with 2,963 points.

Prior to entering the NBA, Drexler averaged 14.4 points and 9.9 rebounds per game in three seasons at the University of Houston. He teamed with Olajuwon and Larry Micheaux to form the "Phi Slama Jama" frontcourt that led the Cougars to the NCAA Final Four in 1982 and 1983. Drexler finished as Houston's all-time leader in steals with 268 career thefts. He had his #22 retired by the University of Houston along with Olajuwon's #34 in February 1997. Following his NBA career, Drexler served as the head coach at the University of Houston, as an assistant coach for the Denver Nuggets and currently serves as a broadcaster for the Rockets.

The fifth-leading rebounder and seventh-leading scorer in NBA history, Moses Malone is a legend that not only made a big impact on the game of basketball, but left a lasting impression with the city of Houston. A two-time NBA MVP in Houston, Malone averaged 24.0 points and a franchise-record 15.0 rebounds in six seasons with the Rockets. Malone also set the franchise single-season record for points in 1982 and rebounds in 1979. Malone was honored for his accomplishments in 2001 with his induction into the Naismith Basketball Hall of Fame.

"When you look back over the 25 years that I played, the game did me good," Malone said following his selection to the Hall of Fame. "The opportunity to be an All-Star for so many years, to be one of the 50 greatest players and then to get the call to be in the Hall of Fame."

After being named Parade High School Player of the Year in Petersburg, Virginia, Malone bypassed college and went directly into the American Basketball Association (ABA), playing with the Utah Stars and the St. Louis Spirits from 1974-76. Malone found himself on the Buffalo Braves roster when the ABA merged with the NBA in 1976. However, Malone only played two games with the Braves before he was sent to the Rockets on Oct. 24, 1976, in exchange for two first-round draft picks. During his first NBA season, Malone averaged 13.2 points and 13.1 rebounds, leading the league in offensive rebounds.

During the 1978-79 season, Malone won his first of three NBA MVP awards by averaging 24.8 points and a league-best 17.6 rebounds per game. The 1978-79 season also marked the first of four consecutive years in which Malone led Houston in points, rebounds and blocked shots.

Malone and his Rockets teammates made history together during the 1980-81 season as the second team ever to win a conference championship and reach the NBA Finals with a losing record. Despite Malone averaging 27.8 points and 14.8 rebounds per game in the 1980-81 season, most people didn't expect the Rockets to get past the first round with a 40-42 regular season record. However, the Rockets upset the reigning NBA Champion Lakers in the first round. Despite the Rockets inspired play in the playoffs, they fell to Larry Bird and the Celtics in the 1981 NBA Finals.

Malone averaged 31.1 points and a league-leading 14.7 rebounds en route to his second MVP award in the 1981-82 season. During that season, he set Rockets records with 13 consecutive 30-point games and three consecutive 40-point games.

On Sept. 15, 1982, Malone was traded to the Philadelphia 76ers in exchange for Caldwell Jones and their 1983 first-round draft pick. Malone claimed MVP honors for the regular season and the NBA Finals in his first season with the 76ers, teaming with Julius Erving to win the NBA title for Philadelphia.

After leaving Houston, Malone played 13 more seasons, including stints with Philadelphia, Washington, Atlanta, Milwaukee and San Antonio. He retired in 1995 with 29,580 points and 17,834 rebounds in 1,455 ABA and NBA games, ranking sixth all-time in major league points and third all-time in rebounds.

A 12-time NBA All-Star, Malone led the NBA in rebounding six times and averaged more than 20 points per game for 11 consecutive seasons. A three-time NBA MVP, Malone was named to the All-NBA First Team four times and the All-NBA Second Team four times. He was named NBA All-Defensive First Team once and All-Defensive Second Team once. Malone earned selection to the NBA's 50th Anniversary All-Time Team during the 1997 NBA All-Star Weekend. During his 19-year NBA career, Malone scored 27,409 points and grabbed 16,212 rebounds. In 1,329 regular season games, he averaged 20.6 points and 12.2 rebounds. In 94 playoff games, he averaged 22.1 points and 13.8 boards.

Malone holds a number of NBA records, including the career record for most offensive rebounds (6,731); single-season record for most offensive rebounds (587); single-game record for most offensive rebounds (21). He also ranks second all-time for most free throws made (8,531); fourth most free throws attempted (11,090); fifth most defensive rebounds (9,481); ninth most games played (1,329); and 11th most minutes played (45,071). He also holds the single-game record for most offensive rebounds in the playoffs (15).

- NBA All-Star (1979)
- NBA All-Rookie Team (1970-71)
- Ranks second in Rockets history in career points
- Recipient of the NBA's J. Walter Kennedy Citizenship Award in 1979
- Holds the NBA's second-highest, single-season free throw percentage .958 (1980-81)
- Inducted into Basketball Hall of Fame in 1993
- Retired as a player prior to the 1983-84 season; Number (23) was retired on March 17, 1984

Calvin Murphy enjoyed one of the greatest moments of his life on May 10, 1993, when he was inducted into the Naismith Basketball Hall of Fame.

"My only dream was that I wanted to start for my high school basketball team, the Norwalk High School Bears," said Murphy, who played his entire 13-year NBA career with the Rockets from 1970-83. "Going to the Hall of Fame was beyond my wildest dreams."

Murphy became the first Hall of Famer to play his entire career with the Rockets, as he averaged 17.9 points and 4.4 assists in 1,002 career games. He still ranks seventh on the all-time NBA free throw percentage list at .892. In 1980-81, Murphy posted a free throw percentage of .958 (206-215 FT), which was the NBA single-season record until Jose Calderon of Toronto hit .981 (151-154 FT) from the line in 2008-09. During Murphy's 1980-81 campaign, he also set a then-NBA record by making 78 consecutive free throws from Dec. 27-Feb. 20, which stood for over a decade until Micheal Williams of Minnesota made 84 straight at the end of the 1992-93 season.

The 5-foot-9 Murphy, who scored 17,949 career points, stands with Avery Johnson as the only two players under six feet to play in 1,000 NBA games. Murphy still owns the Rockets career record with 4,402 assists and holds the 12th best field goal percentage (.482) among NBA guards who have scored at least 15,000 points.

Murphy led the NBA in free throw percentage twice (1980-81, 1982-83) and finished among the top five in nine other seasons. Murphy, Ray Allen, Rick Barry, Reggie Miller, Steve Nash and Mark Price are the only players in league history to have shot .900 or better from the line in six or more seasons.

Murphy stands with Hakeem Olajuwon and Kevin Martin as the only Rockets to rank in the NBA top-10 in four statistical categories in one season, as the Rockets guard accomplished this feat during the 1973-74 season. That year, Murphy ranked second in the NBA with 7.4 assists per game, fourth with a field goal percentage of .522, sixth with a free throw percentage of .868 and ninth with 1.94 steals per game. He also finished that season ranked 19th among scoring leaders with 20.4 points per game.

The San Diego Rockets selected Murphy in the second round in 1970 with the 18th overall pick. The former Niagara University star went on to earn NBA All-Rookie First-Team honors (other First-Team members: Pete Maravich, Bob Lanier, Dave Cowens and Geoff Petrie) and finish fourth in the Rookie of the Year balloting.

Murphy's best year came during the 1977-78 season, when he ranked fifth in the NBA with a career-high 25.6 points per game. He reached 30 points 23 times and scored 40 points three times during that year, including the Rockets single-game scoring record of 57 points vs. New Jersey on March 18, 1978. Murphy averaged better than 20 points in five of 13 seasons, including three consecutive years from 1977-80. In a season, he led the Rockets in points twice, assists three times, steals five times and free throw percentage 10 times.

Murphy scored better than 40 points seven times during the regular season in his NBA career – only Olajuwon (32), Elvin Hayes (25), Moses Malone (22) and Tracy McGrady (15) have had more 40-point games in Rockets history.

A 1979 NBA All-Star, Murphy had one of the most brilliant careers in NCAA Division I history. He was a three-time consensus All-American (First Team 1969 and 1970, Second Team 1968). Murphy averaged 33.1 points in 77 games – still the fourth best average in Division I history (44.2 by Pete Maravich of LSU, 34.6 by Austin Carr of Notre Dame, 33.8 by Oscar Robertson of Cincinnati). His 68 points on Dec. 7, 1968 vs. Syracuse is still the third-best mark against a Division I opponent. Only five players in NCAA history averaged more points in a season than Murphy, who scored 38.2 points per game during the 1967-68 season. He scored 30 or more points in 42 of the 77 games he played for Niagara, reaching 40 points on 19 occasions and 50 points six times.

Murphy averaged double figures in points during every season he played organized basketball, spanning from high school to the NBA. Following his retirement as a player, he worked with the Rockets organization as an assistant coach, a broadcaster and a community services advisor.

For two decades, Hakeem "The Dream" Olajuwon dedicated himself to winning for the city of Houston. By the end of his career, he had secured his place among the most legendary icons in sports. The NBA's all-time blocked shots leader brought Houston its first major sports championships by leading the Rockets to back-to-back NBA Championships in 1994 and 1995. In 2001, Olajuwon finished his 17-year career with the Rockets as the franchise's all-time leader in 26 regular season and postseason statistical categories.

Inducted into the Naismith Memorial Basketball Hall of Fame in 2008, Olajuwon also received several honors during his tenure with the Rockets. Upon entering the league, he was named to the NBA All-Rookie Team with Michael Jordan and Charles Barkley in 1985. Over the next 14 years, he was selected to All-NBA First Team six times (1987-89, 1993-94, 1997), Second Team three times (1986, 1990, 1996), and Third Team three times (1991, 1995, 1999). The 12-time All-Star was also chosen for the NBA All-Defensive First Team five times (1987-88, 1990, 1993-94) and Second Team four times (1985, 1991, 1996-97). The Texas Sports Hall of Fame inducted Olajuwon on Jan. 27, 1999.

Overall with Houston, Olajuwon ranks first all-time in years played, games played, points, rebounds, defensive rebounds, offensive rebounds, steals, blocked shots, free throws made and attempted, field goals made and attempted, as well as minutes played. He also stands fourth in Rockets history in scoring average and third in assists.

Olajuwon led the Rockets to the playoffs 14 times, averaging 26.6 points, 11.4 rebounds and 3.34 blocks in 140 career playoff contests. In NBA playoff history, he ranks second in blocks (472), 10th in points (3,755) and ninth in scoring average (25.9). In 1986, Olajuwon and Ralph Sampson led the Rockets to the NBA Finals. In 1994, he averaged 28.9 points and 11.0 rebounds in Houston's trek to its first NBA title. The following year, he posted averages of 33.0 points and 10.3 rebounds as the Rockets won their second consecutive NBA Championship. Olajuwon stands as the team's all-time playoff leader in postseasons played, games played, minutes, points, field goals made and attempted, free throws made and attempted, rebounds, assists, steals and blocks. He also ranks second in postseason scoring average.

During the 1988-89 season, Olajuwon became the first player in NBA history to reach 200 blocks and 200 steals in one year. The following season, he led the NBA with career highs of 14.0 rebounds and 4.59 blocks, standing as one of two rebounding titles and one of three blocked shots crowns. On March 29, 1990 vs. Milwaukee, he recorded a quadruple-double, marking one of 14 career triple-doubles.

In 1994, Olajuwon became the first player in league history to win the NBA MVP, Defensive Player of the Year and NBA Finals MVP in the same season. This also marked his second consecutive Defensive Player of the Year award and the first of two consecutive NBA Finals MVP awards.

Born in Nigeria, Olajuwon earned American citizenship and represented his country as a member of the gold-medal-winning 1996 United States Olympic Team. Selected to the Rockets 30-Year Team in 1998, he was also named one of the 50 Greatest Players in NBA History, which was announced by NBA Commissioner David Stern on Oct. 29, 1996, in New York City.

Olajuwon came to Houston in 1980 as a freshman at the University of Houston, teaming with Clyde Drexler and Larry Micheaux to form the "Phi Slama Jama" frontcourt. Olajuwon led the Cougars to the NCAA Final Four in three straight seasons. After topping the NCAA with averages of 13.5 rebounds and 5.6 blocks to earn consensus All-America First-Team honors, Olajuwon was selected by the Rockets with the first overall pick of the 1984 NBA Draft. In his 11-season career, he led the Rockets in scoring average four times and rebounding average once. In his second season, Tomjanovich averaged a career-high 11.8 rebounds with 15.0 points, as the team made its debut in Houston.

During the 1972-73 season, Tomjanovich posted team-leading averages of 19.3 points and 11.6 rebounds. He earned the first of four consecutive All-Star selections in 1974, as he led Houston and ranked seventh in the NBA with a career-high 24.5 points per game. He scored a career-high 42 points against Buffalo on Jan. 13, 1974. During the 1974-75 season, Tomjanovich led Houston with 20.7 points per game and guided the Rockets to their first-ever playoff series win. He averaged a team-leading 21.6 points for the 1976-77 Rockets and helped Houston to its first division title. Tomjanovich played only 23 games the next year, as he suffered a facial fracture on Dec. 9, 1977 versus the Lakers. Tomjanovich returned to the All-Star Game in 1979, averaging 19.0 points and 7.7 rebounds with Houston in his comeback season.

After the Rockets advanced to the NBA Finals in 1981, Tomjanovich retired having spent his entire playing career with the Rockets. He retired Oct. 2, 1981, and his jersey was retired on Jan. 28, 1982.

Beginning with the 1981-82 season, Tomjanovich spent two years as a Rockets scout. He became an assistant coach in 1983 and served in that role until being named interim head coach on Feb. 18, 1992. In the first 15 games with Tomjanovich at the helm, the Rockets responded with an 11-4 record — the best start for any coach in franchise history.

Officially named the ninth head coach in Rockets history on May 20, 1992, Tomjanovich became the first coach in NBA history to guide his team from the lottery to a division title in his first full season. His coaching peers voted him The Sporting News NBA Coach of the Year in 1993. He was also named head coach of the Western Conference for the 1997 NBA All-Star Game and received NBA Coach of the Month recognition three times with Houston.

Tomjanovich posted a 503-397 (.559) regular season mark and 51-39 (.567) playoff record in 12 seasons with Houston, departing with franchise records for career wins and winning percentage. Tomjanovich resigned as Houston's coach following the 2002-03 season while undergoing successful treatment for bladder cancer. He was hired to coach the L.A. Lakers during the summer of 2004 before stepping aside later that season for health reasons. On the career coaching wins list, he ranks 25th all-time in NBA history with 525 victories.

Aside from his coaching success in the NBA, Tomjanovich coached the United States Senior National Team on two occasions. He guided the United States Men's Basketball Team to a gold medal and an undefeated record in the 2000 Summer Olympics. Prior to the Olympics, Tomjanovich led a United States team of non-NBA players to a bronze medal at the 1998 World Championship of Basketball.

Tomjanovich stands with Basketball Hall of Famers Lenny Wilkins and the late Chuck Daly as the only people to coach teams to an NBA Championship and an Olympic gold medal. He also stands as one of eight coaches in NBA history to possess 500 career wins and multiple NBA championships.

- Named Executive Vice President of Basketball/General Manager on July 26, 1996
- Only person on coaching staffs of all four Rockets teams to advance to the NBA Finals
- Inducted into the Paris Junior College Hall of Fame in 1991
- Enshrined in the Baylor University Hall of Fame in 1998
- Entered the Texas Association of Basketball Coaches Hall of Fame in 2001
- Inducted into the Texas Sports Hall of Fame in 2003
- Retired as General Manager after the 2006-07 season
- Honored with "Carroll Dawson Tribute Night" on April 16, 2007

Affectionately known as "CD," Carroll Dawson was honored by Houston Rockets Owner Leslie Alexander with "Carroll Dawson Tribute Night" on April 16, 2007, where a banner bearing his name was hung from the rafters of Toyota Center in honor of Dawson's 27 seasons with the Rockets organization as General Manager and as an assistant coach.

Dawson completed his 11th and final campaign as General Manager of the franchise in 2006-07. Prior to moving into the front office on July 26, 1996, Dawson worked as an assistant coach under four Rockets head coaches, aiding Del Harris from 1980-83, Bill Fitch from 1983-88, Don Chaney from 1988-92 and Rudy Tomjanovich from 1992-96.

Recognized as one of the top executives in the NBA, Dawson finished second in voting for The Sporting News NBA Executive of the Year in 2006-07. As General Manager, Dawson showed the ability to both bolster a playoff contender with veterans and acquire emerging talent as part of a youth movement. In his first few years, he made trades for Charles Barkley and Scottie Pippen to give a team led by Hakeem Olajuwon even more experience. Dawson then helped the Rockets acquire several young talents in the following years, including Cuttino Mobley, Steve Francis and Yao Ming.

In the summer of 2005, Dawson worked with Alexander to sign Yao to a maximum-value contract extension. In the summer of 2004, Dawson changed the face of the franchise by obtaining one of the NBA's top players in Tracy McGrady. The two-time scoring champion was acquired from Orlando in a seven-player deal that included Francis and Mobley.

Dawson holds the distinction of being the only person on the coaching staffs of all four Rockets teams that advanced to the NBA Finals, as Houston played for a championship in 1981, 1986, 1994 and 1995. He will always be known throughout the NBA for his work with frontcourt players and was credited with teaching Olajuwon his famous jump hook. Dawson coached many NBA All-Stars during his years in Houston, including Elvin Hayes, Moses Malone, Ralph Sampson and Tomjanovich.

Dawson's knowledge of the game was not limited to the NBA. Prior to the inaugural 1997 WNBA season, Dawson was commissioned by Alexander to help assemble the first Houston Comets team. He guided the efforts to bring Sheryl Swoopes and Cynthia Cooper to Houston, and then drafted Janeth Arcain in the WNBA Elite Draft. Dawson was also instrumental in the selection of Tina Thompson with the first pick of the Inaugural WNBA Draft. Finally, he worked with Alexander to hire Naismith Hall of Famer and WNBA All-Decade Coach Van Chancellor. Dawson served as Chancellor's top advisor as the Comets Executive Vice President of Basketball from 1997-2006 and helped craft the four-time WNBA Champions (1997-2000).

A native Texan, Dawson hails from Alba, a town with a population of 200 that sits about 75 miles east of Dallas. As a 6-foot-5 high school center, he led Alba High School to a 44-3 record as a senior. He then went on to win Junior College All-America honors at Paris Junior College (Texas) under Head Coach Boyd Converse. After two seasons at Paris, Dawson moved on to Baylor University, where he led Bill Henderson's Baylor Bears in scoring and rebounding in each of his two seasons. In 1960, he averaged 16.4 points as a senior to earn All-Southwest Conference honors.

In 1963, he returned to Baylor as an assistant to Head Coach Bill Menefee. He later succeeded Menefee as head coach in 1973, remaining in that position for more than three seasons. After spending two years as a scout for the Dallas Cowboys at the call of executive Gil Brandt, Dawson started a career as a salesman for Converse Shoe Company.

Dawson has been honored with induction into the Paris Junior College Hall of Fame in 1991, the Baylor University Hall of Fame in 1998, the Texas Association of Basketball Coaches Hall of Fame in 2001, and the Texas Sports Hall of Fame in 2003. He was also named Mr. Sportsman 2005 by Interfaith Charities in Houston. In 2010, Dawson was honored as a Baylor Basketball Legend by the 'B' Association. In addition, he was named the President of the Texas Sports Hall of Fame.

Remaining with the Rockets as a Senior Consultant, Dawson resides in Houston with his wife, Sharon. Sharon has a daughter, Elizabeth, and a son, Michael.

NBA Personnel Facts

Active List
Each team is required to maintain 12 players on its Active List, and to have a minimum of eight players dressed and able to participate in all preseason and regular season games or nine players for playoff games. A team may periodically carry 11 players on its Active List, but for no more than two consecutive weeks at a time. Each team is responsible for delivering the team's Active List to the Official Scorer prior to each game.

Inactive List
A team may carry a maximum of three players on its Inactive List (subject to hardship rules). Each team is required to maintain one player on its Inactive List for all regular season games. A team may periodically carry zero players on its Inactive List, but for no more than two consecutive weeks at a time. Players may move freely between the Active List and the Inactive List.

10-Day Contract
A player can be signed to a 10-Day contract beginning on Feb. 6 or the next business day if Feb. 6 is not a business day. No team may be a party at any time to more 10-Day contracts than the number of players on its Inactive List. Players signed to 10-Day contracts can be placed on either the Active List or the Inactive List.

NBA D-League Assignment
Any player who is assigned by his team to the NBA D-League must be placed and maintained on his NBA team's Inactive List for the duration of his D-League assignment.

Waivers
From Aug. 15 to the end of the regular season, clubs may claim waived players within 48 hours after notice. Players waived any other time may be claimed within 10 days. If no teams claim the waived player, he becomes a free agent. If more than one club claims a waived player, the one with the lesser record at that time claims the player.

Guaranteed Contract Date
On Feb. 10 of the regular season, all player contracts become guaranteed for the remainder of the season.

Trading Deadline
The trading deadline for 2011-12 is TBD. From that point to the end of the regular season, player additions must be made through the waiver procedure or by signing free agents.
